

A diagram illustrating a transition from a state of security to a state of insecurity. On the left, a white rounded rectangle with a black border contains the word "Security". A solid black arrow curves from the right side of this box, arching upwards and then downwards to point at a white rectangular box on the right containing the word "Insecurity". A dashed black line also originates from the bottom left of the "Security" box and extends diagonally towards the "Insecurity" box. The background is split: a gray area on the left and a white area on the right, separated by a diagonal dashed line.

Security

Insecurity